

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

This needs assessment was funded by the Idaho State Library. A special thank you goes to Sue Walker and Charles Bolles for providing direction for the study, suggestions along the way, and for teaming up with the consultants to conduct the focus groups.

Numerous other individuals contributed time and provided valuable input. Chiefly, the individuals who attended focus groups and who allowed the consultants to interview them were invaluable. The Talking Book Service staff and other State Library support staff were instrumental in mailing interview invitations, collecting permission slips, and providing information to callers. Idaho State Library staffer Michael Samuelson adeptly mounted the public library survey on the State Library's website and provided the consultant with the survey data. Jackie Bryan, Field Services Chief for the Idaho Commission for the Blind and Visually Impaired, staffer Kris Grant and other Blind Commission staff helped recruit interviewees and focus group attendees.

Several key informants helped clarify what is happening for print-impaired children, including Cindy Hayes, Susan Baker, and Robin Swenson of the Idaho School for the Deaf and Blind (ISDB). Special thanks to Shirley Cobble, ISDB, for facilitating their input. Additionally, Reggie Talbot of the Life Care Center of Boise, Larry Streeter of the Bureau of Special Education, State Department of Education, and Gina Hemenway, Boise School District took the time to be interviewed as did librarians Katie Crill of West Bonner County Library District and Sandra Ashworth of Boundary County Public Library.

Thank you to all, named and unnamed, who helped provide input and their perspectives on the needs of the print-impaired. Finally, thank you to associates Dallas Young Shaffer and Carolyn Vinton, who assisted with this needs assessment and to Sara Behrman, consultant and facilitator for the Oregon Talking Book and Braille Service Long Range Plan for her overview of best practices.
